i get an error saying "Fatal error occured during startup. You must repair/reset your computer". I tried to do this but with no luck. I've tried both Programs and System Restore, with no luck. Could someone tell me how to fix this? I'm running Windows XP Home Edition, and i'm using Sony's Direct TV C70. Any help would be appreciated. A: I've used to this error and the same happened to me because of the badly corrupted or damaged file system. Open Windows explorer and browse to the folder where the game files are. Right click on the folder and select the option named: "Move" Then click on "Move to Recycle Bin" 4. Examine all your items for damage. Many things just look OK, and may need some repair or replacement. Most of your possessions are probably in good shape. 5. Do you have enough food? Remember that you can live for several days without food. 6. Can you be comfortable? Make sure that you have comfortable clothing and good bedding. If the weather is very hot, you may have to sacrifice a warm covering. 7. Do you have all your records? You need to know the names of your children, your spouse, and other important people in your life. Your insurance policy, your financial records, your employment records, and your important papers should be safe and readily available. 8. Are you alone? If you are not, you need to identify and reach out to other people who can help you. 9. Do you have a plan? As you get more and more information, you should be able to develop a more realistic plan for how to handle your situation. Make sure that you have a safe place to go, and that you have a way to communicate with the outside world. 10. What can you do? It's tempting to try to do everything at once, and to try to get everything resolved right away. However, you need to prioritize your needs and do the work that is most important. Reach out to your friends and family, and let them know what you need. The best advice that you can get from someone who has already gone through this kind of situation is a great place to start.
